Soldier Held
In Ax Slaying

SMALLWOOD, N.Y. (AP)—A killer stalked a darkened home with an ax Wednesday and beat to death a man and a teen-aged girl. A second girl narrowly escaped death.

The motive was not immediately clear, although a man accused of being the killer was said to have formerly been engaged to one of the girls.

The victims met death after a New Year's night out. Their slayer hid for hours in a closet to waylay them after their return home.

The victims were Joseph McAdams, 49, a clerk in the State Motor Vehicles Department at nearby Monticello, and Judith McDough, 19, who was spending the night with McAdams' daughter.

Florence McAdams, 20, the daughter, was strangled into unconsciousness, then left for dead. She was taken to a Monticello hospital, where her condition was reported serious.

Arrested and charged with first-degree murder was Frank S. Scaramuzzo, 24, an Army private from Monticello, on holiday leave from Fort Sill, Okla. State police described him as a former fiancé of Miss McAdams.

Navy Mascot
Goatnapped

DALLAS (AP) — The Cotton Bowl celebration of the new year got off to a smooth start Wednesday, if you except the Navy which lost its mascot.

It is difficult to misplace a goat and that is not exactly what happened. It was more like a goatnapping, everyone speculated, seeing that Navy played Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

Through the morning hours at least, Billy SV-1/2 was missing. He had been hidden in the garage of the Car Morris home. He was gone when the family returned at midnight.

Actually, Billy SV-1/2 was a substitute, provided by a rancher, for Billy SV who remained in Annapolis.

Nuns Awaken
By Vandals

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — George Heinrich, 20, was held without bail for grand jury action Wednesday, accused of breaking into a convent and arousing 20 sleeping nuns by turning tables, chairs and other furnishings.

Two other youths accused of participating are being sought. Police said the trio scaled a back wall around the convent of St. Gabriel's Roman Catholic Church and caused the damage. Heinrich was picked up near the rectory, his hands cut and bleeding. He denied the accusation but was charged with burglary, attempted larceny, malicious mischief, breach of the peace and disorderly conduct.

Castro Softer
On Johnson

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuban Premier Fidel Castro said Wednesday he feels President Johnson may understand that recent U.S. policy on Cuba "did not give glory to the United States."

Castro also said he believed that the late President Kennedy was, before his death, "beginning to think of the possibilities of normalization of relations" between the United States and Cuba.

"It is not easy to change the policies of the United States," Castro added. "But... we had some symptoms that it was possible..."

Safe Landing

EOSTON (AP) — A Trans World Airlines pilot brought his jet airliner with 71 persons aboard in for a safe landing Wednesday night at Logan Airport after the landing gear collapsed as it touched down.

There were no injuries reported from the 63 passengers and crew of eight.

Pressure Builds
For Open Wall

BERLIN (AP) — A throng of West Berliners spent New Year's Day in East Berlin, building up pressure on both Communist and Western authorities to prolong the holiday pass arrangement beyond next Sunday's scheduled cutoff date.

The flow of 59,000 New Year's Day visitors started in predawn, even as other West Berliners still were streaming back across the wall wearing fancy hats from New Year's Eve parties.

The number of holiday visits through the wall since Dec. 19 climbed past 600,000 with the New Year's Day count, the largest for a 24-hour period since last Sunday's 154,000.

The official East German news agency, ADN, reported that 172,740 West Berliners had spent one or both days of the holiday in East Berlin. Several thousands had passed for both days and stayed all night.

An undetermined number of West Berliners had to be carried home by ambulance after collapsing from the combination of late hours, hard drinking and emotional tension. But no major incidents were reported along the wall, still under guard by thousands of armed men.

Berliners united after separation by the Communist wall since Aug. 13, 1961, greeted the new year with a frenzy of drink, song and exploding fireworks. As the new year arrived East Berlin's Karl Marx Allee became a no man's land of exploding fireworks.

The West Berlin city government has said it will negotiate with the East German regime on extending the visits. West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt is under conflicting pressures — from West Berliners who want to continue seeing their loved ones and from Western Allied officials and Berlin newspapers warning against political concessions to the Communists.

Brandt views the wall-crossing as a purely technical, humanitarian arrangement rather than an international agreement between states. The Allies and the West German government were obviously worried that wall agreements helped support the East German regime's claim to recognition and the Red concept of three Germanys—West, East and West Berlin.

Death Toll
Surpasses
Yule Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic fatalities mounted steadily Wednesday night on the treacherous by a cover of ice or snow in large sections of the South and East.

The death toll surpassed the rate recorded during a recent midweek non-holiday period, but trailed the casualty figures of last week's Christmas Day observance.

Traffic deaths since the start of the New Year's celebration at 12:01 a.m. local time Tuesday totaled 175. At the same hour, the Christmas toll had reached 233.

The National Safety Council estimated in advance that between 140 and 180 persons might be killed in traffic mishaps between 6 p.m. New Year's Eve and Wednesday midnight, a 30-hour period. However, as the holiday period moved into its final hours, Howard Pyle, council president, said there were indications the total would reach "the high end of our estimate."

"The total for the period for which we made our estimate could exceed 180 and even reach 200. If the recent Christmas experience is repeated," he said.

There was an upsurge in traffic fatalities in the last hours of the Christmas observance last week.

Gifts
Greet
1st Baby

EAST STROUDSBURG — Traci Leigh Clark was the first baby born in the General Hospital of Monroe County in 1964. She arrived at 1:17 a.m. New Year's Day.

The hospital reports she weighed seven pounds, five ounces and baby and mother are doing fine.

Clark is the first child born to Mr. and Mrs. John A. Clark III of East Stroudsburg RD 2.

Clark said, "Having a child born on New Year's Day is really not the important thing, it is secondary. The important thing is that she and her mother are in good health and that they are doing fine."

Clark is employed as a laboratory technician at the National Drug Co. in Swiftwater.

The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John A. Clark Jr. of 500 Scott St., Stroudsburg. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Bush of 120 Jane St., Stroudsburg.

The child is assured 10 gifts by Daily Record First Baby Contest advertisers.

Included as gifts are: two savings accounts of $10 each; a $10 gift certificate; a three-piece, hand finished cap-sweater and bootie set; six months supply of baby vitamins; wallpaper for one average room; crib blanket; baby's first pair of shoes; bumper pads, and $5 in dry cleaning.

Reds Host
Albanians

LONDON (AP) — Premier Chou-En-lai of Red China celebrated the arrival of 164 white Albanian workers, the Tirana Radio said Wednesday.

Sheriff's officers were searching for the unidentified man. Date for a coroner's inquest has not been set.

New Wife Present

Among those at the party were Parrilli's recent bride, Nancy; Marconi; Ditka, and Ed O'Bradovich, the Bears' defensive end. They were at a reserved table. About 100 other couples attended the $25-a-couple New Year's celebration.

Mertes said Parrilli had been killed by a shot fired accidentally by Chief of Police Robert G. Winthers of Willowbrook as he and another officer attempted to break up the washroom scuffle, some distance from the scene of the party.

Mertes said Winthers, who was present at the bowling alley, related that all three men—Parrilli, Marconi and the unidentified man—were scuffling

Johnson Asks Peace Attack;
Wants Action, Not Just Words

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson, administration sources said Wednesday, is determined to seek new breakthroughs on peace as part of an unrelenting peace offensive.

White House officials said such a peace offensive, as Johnson sees it, should be what he calls today's hard line on communism.

The President is confident, they said, that this nation is fully alert to Red tactics after 15 years of cold war and thinks it would be muddle-headed should we fail to take steps to seek peace because we are afraid of being taken in by Communist tactics.

Johnson was represented as being acutely sensitive to the fact that the East and West stand on the edge of a nuclear precipice. A friend quoted him as saying he does not think the United States should or can "drag its feet a year until after election" before pressing for breakthroughs on peace.

Year Of Action

His views were made known a few hours after the President had told Soviet Premier Khrushchev that 1964 should be a year of action on peace and not just talk about peace.

In his message to Khrushchev and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, Johnson said the strengthening of peace is "the highest purpose in the new year" of the American people and their government.

"The time for simply talking about peace, however, has passed. 1964 should be a year in which we take further steps toward that goal."

"In this spirit I shall strive for the further improvement of relations between our two countries," he added.

The President was described as bent on keeping and improving the United States' preparedness.

McNamara Praised

And Johnson, those close to the President said, has developed a profound respect for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and has been greatly impressed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff of the armed services.

Administration sources made two other points:

—This is going to be a working year for Johnson and he doesn't expect the people around him to be on the cocktail circuit in 1964.

—The President is generally happy with personnel in government. But he would like to bring in new talent from the academic field from all over the country. This would be a departure from the late President John F. Kennedy's heavy reliance on Harvard men for advice and for government service.

The President's message calling for action toward peace came in the form of an answer to the Kremlin leaders' greetings. Khrushchev and Brezhnev had told Johnson in a New Year's Eve message that the past year saw "significant improvement in the approach to the solutions of urgent international problems and in the development of Soviet-American relations."

"We would like to hope," they said, "that the coming year will be marked by further significant successes, both in the resolution of important international problems and the improvement of relations between our countries, in the interest of the Soviet and American people and the interests of strengthening world peace."

Both the Soviet leaders and the President offered cordial New Year's greetings and best wishes.

Makarios Seeks Free Cyprus;
Three Greek Monks Killed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — President Archbishop Makarios backed off Wednesday night from an announced position that he was pushing unilaterally to scrap treaties binding Cyprus with Britain, Greece and Turkey. He reconsidered after Britain challenged his action.

Against a background of fresh blood-letting in the communal conflict on this eastern Mediterranean island, the Greek Cypriot archbishop made it clear in a second statement the treaties have not been abrogated yet. He said:

"Our decision is to secure the termination of these treaties by appropriate means."

In his first statement Makarios said he had decided to cancel the British-Greek-Turkish treaty that guaranteed Cypriot statehood following the island's liberation from British colonial rule in 1960.

A Nicosia announcement said Makarios made this decision known in cables to heads of state around the world.

But then, as tension between Turk and Greek Cypriots was heightened by a raid on the Greek Orthodox monastery of Galatoforoussa in which three monks were killed and three wounded, Britain challenged Makarios' right to act alone.

The British clearly feared fresh outbreaks of violence if Makarios pursued his intention to declare abrogated forthwith the treaties that made Cyprus a republic — delicately balanced between Greek majority and Turkish minority interests.

Britain is acting as policeman on the island in behalf of the Cyprus government, a member of the British Commonwealth.

In Ankara, Turkish reaction to Makarios' statements came in the form of a statement that Turkey considers any unilateral action on the treaties illegal and non-binding on Turkey.

Foreign Aid Plan
Financially Sound

WASHINGTON (AP) — Foreign-aid officials surveying the damage from Congress' $1.5-billion slash in new funds have found they still have enough money for an economic program nearly the size of last year's.

But the funds available for overseas arms aid are down sharply from 1963. And the over-all money they have for the current 12 months is $1.2 billion less than they wanted.

The surprise in the aid-financing picture, after Congress voted only $3 billion of the $45 billion in new appropriations sought by the administration, lies in an unusually large carry-over from unsavily voted in past years.

Officials of the Agency for International Development (AID) have found $669,876,000 still available from previously voted funds that were never committed or that have been recovered from unfulfilled projects.

Thus, according to figures made available Wednesday, the total foreign-aid money available for fiscal 1964 is $3,669,876,000. This is down only $486 million from last year's total program, counting carry-over.

Red Flags
Wave Over
Red Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Thousands of red flags and huge pictures of Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Soviet Premier Khrushchev bedecked Havana for the celebration Thursday of the fifth anniversary of Castro's rule.

Government-sponsored mass demonstrations, military displays and pleas for economy are set to mark the revolutionary victory of Castro in the 1959 New Year's dawn.

On that day President Fulgencio Batista fled Cuba, leaving behind a shattered regime and an army demoralized by a two-year battle against Castro's guerrilla forces.

Thousands of Cubans were expected to line Havana's Avenue of the Presidents for a military parade displaying tanks, artillery, and land-to-air rockets. The air force planned to send jet fighters. Most of the military hardware is from the Soviet Union.

Visiting Communist delegations from Europe, Asia and Latin America were invited to join Castro and Cuban officials on a reunion at the Plaza de la Revolution to review the parade, but no major party chiefs or heads of state were on hand.

Government-sponsored fireworks displays of green and red rockets lit up the Havana sky Wednesday and horns blared to welcome the new year.

Pontiff Prepares
For Pilgrimage

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said on New Year's Day that his trip to the Holy Land next weekend "may have an impact for many years to come."

The Roman Catholic ruler also indicated the Vatican Ecumenical Council, opened by Pope John XXIII in 1962, may close at the end of this year.

The pontiff, speaking from a window of his studio to a crowd of 30,000 in St. Peter's Square, called his Palestine pilgrimage and the Ecumenical Council two great events he sees for 1964.

It was the Pope's first public statements of the new year. He began Wednesday an intensified three-day period of prayer for his Holy-Land trip. He leaves by plane Jan. 4 and returns Jan. 6.

In the Holy Land he will visit Christian shrines in Jordan and Israel and will meet with Patriarch Athenagoras I of Constantinople (Istanbul) in the first encounter between a Pope and an Orthodox patriarch in five centuries. Athenagoras is spiritual leader of the Orthodox.

The meeting could point to an era of closer relations between the two churches. The Orthodox number 150 million members, mainly in Eastern Europe and the Middle East. There are a half billion Roman Catholics.

The churches separated in the 11th century after years of dispute over questions of dogma and papal authority.

When Mercury Dips,
It's Time For A Dip

PITTSBURGH—Despite the frigid temperatures and heavy snow fall yesterday four self-styled "human polar bears" plunged into the Monongahela River for their annual New Year's Day swim.

"Last one in is a sissy," said 60-year-old Mrs. Elizabeth Nichols as she eased into the water near downtown Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Nichols was making her 9th annual swim. Her husband, David, 63, was enjoying—the said—his 23rd annual dip. Both are from Pittsburgh.

Merle F. Smith, Jr., 26, of Marlanna in Washington County joined the group for his third New Year's swim.

The king of Pittsburgh area polar bears, steelworker Gus Briekner of Charleroi also was on hand.

Briekner, a 54-year-old grandfather, has been taking cold-water swims for the past 37 years. He claims to have taken a dip every day of the year except Christmas for the past 16 years.

Briekner, braver than the others took three short dips. None of the swimmers complained of the weather.

Said Gus:

"Aw this is nothing. Up where I train the ice has been eight inches thick for the past two weeks. I have to work a half hour just to get space big enough to splash around in."

Grid Star Shot In Scuffle

CHICAGO (AP)—Guard Tony Parrilli, voted University of Illinois' most valuable football player in 1961, was shot to death in a bowling alley scuffle early Wednesday.

The tragedy ended a New Year's party at the suburban Willowbrook Lanes. Mike Ditka, 24, All-National Football League tight end for the world-champion Chicago Bears, is part owner of the establishment.

Joe Marconi, Bears fullback and one of the stars in their championship victory over the New York Giants Sunday, suffered head wounds requiring eight stitches to close. He was treated at a hospital and released.

Accidentally Shot

Capt. Herbert Mertes of the Du Page County sheriff's office said Parrilli had been shot accidentally above the left eye by a police official who had attempted to break up a fight between Parrilli and an unidentified man.

Marconi said he had gone to the washroom after the scuffling already had started.

"I don't know who the other fellow was," Marconi said. "I tried to calm things down and was starting to wash my hands when I was hit on the head."

Ditka said he was at the other side of the building when the shooting took place.

"I was told there was an argument over Sunday's game," said Ditka. "I had seen the fellow, who was arguing with Parrilli, around during the evening, but I don't know him."

William Bauer, Du Page County state's attorney, pushed an investigation into circumstances leading to the shooting.

Dixie Hit
With Heavy
Snowstorms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dixie's biggest snowstorm in recent years garbed beaches and magnolias in shimmering New Year finery that soon became a straitjacket for many areas where even flurries are rare.

Ten inches of snow piled up in southeast Mississippi and covered Huntsville, Ala., under 16 inches as other parts of the South, East and North got snow, sleet, freezing rain and gale winds.

Riding in with the new year, the storm startled the South with snow, lashed coastal North Carolina and Georgia with gales, and rolled its icy carpet from the Gulf of Mexico to northern Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Goo Goes;
Beaches OK

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A miles-long sheet of tarry goo which floated for two days off the Southern California coast, threatening to gum up beaches, was reported Wednesday to be dissipating.

A Coast Guard pilot said after a morning inspection, "light that the floating layer of fuel oil broke up overnight and hardly a trace could be seen."

Forty thousand gallons of thick oil spilled from an undersea oil line, floated to a beach and congealed.

Family Of Five Dies In Blaze

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Raging fires inflicted death and privation upon several Pennsylvania regions this New Year's holiday season.

Worst of the tragedies was the ruin of a home in Huntzville, Luzerne county, soon after dawn on Wednesday. A family of five—A. Hayden Conn Jr., his wife, Mary, and their three children, Ann Dudley, 10; Dana Wynne, eight; and Alfred Hayden 11, four—was given up for dead in the smoking wreckage of a two-story brick house.

The fire broke out little more than two hours or so after the end of a New Year's eve party. For years the Conn and close friends gathered in the mansion-like house for a family-type celebration. It was reported that the last of the guests left about 5 a. m., and that there was no indication then of anything amiss.

Neighbors told authorities that smoke and flames billowed from the house and that the family "just didn't have a chance." Parts of the roof collapsed as firemen, struggling in bitter cold, sought to reach the bedrooms. After an hour and 15 minutes only the brick walls remained, the inside of the house a tangle of hot, smoking debris.

Firemen said it might take many hours to find the bodies.

Pittsburgh To Host Goldwater

PITTSBURGH (AP)—U.S. Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., will be the chief speaker at a $100-a-plate Republican fund raising dinner in Pittsburgh on Jan. 29, it was announced Sunday.

The dinner will be sponsored by the Allegheny County Republican Finance Committee. Goldwater is a possible candidate for the GOP presidential nomination.

Hard Coal Output May Take Dip

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 15-per cent boost of Pennsylvania anthracite production recorded this year may not last long.

The Interior Department said that exports in 1963, which triggered the boost may be diminished by mild weather in Europe and increasing ocean freight rates.

The coldest winter in Europe in 100 years last year depleted anthracite supplies there, and was responsible for the buying of Pennsylvania anthracite, an Interior Department spokesman reports.

Penn State Bids Awarded

HARRISBURG (AP)—The General State Authority awarded contracts totaling better than $1.5 million Monday for construction of an extension to the Willard Building at the Pennsylvania State University.

Contracts were given to: General Construction—Earl L. Camp, Inc., Chambersburg, $1,068,000; Heating, ventilating and air conditioning—Herre Brothers Inc., Harrisburg, $314,270; Plumbing—Hughes Corp., Luzerne, $76,300, and Electrical—Ernst, Inc., Camp Hill, $113,000.

Autos To Use Same Plates

HARRISBURG (AP)—Commercial vehicle license plates will be replaced in 1964, but passenger vehicle plates will be carried over one more year, the state Bureau of Motor Vehicles said Tuesday.

L. T. Bernard, bureau director, said about 850,000 commercial vehicles would be issued new plates June 1. License stickers once again will be assigned to the four million passenger vehicles after current stickers expire March 31.

License plates were last issued in 1958 for both categories.

Weather Mums Mummers Parade

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bad weather forced a two-day postponement of the city's traditional New Year's day Mummers parade, and along with it a threatened demonstration against blackface minstrelsy in the spectacle.

Snow and sleet, which eventually turned to rain, were considered too much of a hazard to the marchers and their finery. So now the parade, a mixture of jollity, gorgeous costumes and sashaying string bands, will be held on Saturday. Similar postponements have been deemed necessary a few times before.

Parade officials welcomed the additional time in which to try to resolve differences that led civil rights advocates to assert they would form a human blockade to stall the parade, if blackface comedy were permitted.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People went to court in an effort to have blackface banned. This was turned down Tuesday. This was done on the ground that the city, which sponsors the parade, had promised that no part of the performance would offend anyone, racially or otherwise.

In an eleventh hour appeal religious leaders Tuesday night asked Paul D'Ortona, president of the city council, to call off the parade to make sure there would be no violence.

D'Ortona refused, saying, "you can't go out and cancel the parade when the court says they have the right to hold it."

Meeting with the clergymen and D'Ortona were representatives of the NAACP and the Congress of Racial Equality, who reaffirmed their stand that all blackface masquerading must go. The clergymen suggested that a compromise might be worked out on the matter of blackface makeup.

Lewis Smith, regional chairman of the CORE, said that at any sign of blackface, "We will picket the full length of the parade. If there is violence and we get beat, then we'll take our beatings."

Cecil B. Moore, local chairman of the NAACP, said his organization would not picket the parade, but would boycott it by staying away, and by not watching it on television. He said Negroes would be asked also to boycott the products of those having anything to do with the parade sponsorship.

In order to cope with the chance of a violent outbreak the police department had canceled holiday leaves by the hundreds and mustered a force of 1,800 to patrol the parade route. The leaves were reinstated after nature solved the immediate problem.

Judgeships Unconfirmed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nominations of John M. Davis and Leon Higginbotham Jr. by the late President John F. Kennedy for federal judgeships in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania were left unconfirmed with the adjournment of the first session of the 88th Congress Monday.

The nominations, submitted to the Senate in September, were approved by a judiciary subcommittee after a hearing Dec. 19, at which both men were endorsed by the Pennsylvania and American bar associations. But the full committee took no action.

Higginbotham, a Negro, is a member of the Federal Trade Commission. Davis is a former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania.

Stroud Union Board Affirms Action On Married Students

STROUDSBURG — The Stroud Union Board of Education upheld its stand against married students taking part in extra-curricular activities at an informal meeting last night.

In a brief statement issued through its president, Robert Hellmann, the board said, "There is no change in the attitude and views of the Stroud Union School Board since the regular December meeting."

On Dec. 18 the board passed a resolution that forbids married students to participate in any activity where public performance is involved or in which the students act in the name of the school.

The resolution has caused a considerable amount of comment because of its direct effect on Fred Frantz. He is a

Erhard Warns West Berlin

BONN (AP) — Back from talks with President Johnson, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard warned the West Berlin city government Monday against getting out on a limb in deals with Communist East Germany.

Erhard told a news conference the United States hopes to avoid complicating the Berlin situation. On a positive note he added that Johnson expects West Germany, as a near neighbor of the Soviet bloc, to come up with new suggestions for easing tensions with the Soviet Union.

The suggestion is a novel one for West Germany. In recent years Bonn has limited its role to criticizing proposals of this kind from other countries.

Red Guerillas Not Shipshape

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A document found by government forces indicates Communist guerrilla leaders are having trouble keeping their soldiers in keen battle shape, the document reports.

The document reads: "Critique on morale after attack on enemy: Personnel were afraid to die, afraid of aircraft, afraid of rockets and dared not fire their weapons. The men of ten, dispersed and fought each other. Sentries abandoned their posts to drink water. The troops drank alcohol and leave without permission. Men lose their ammunition. Tobacco 'sleeping hours' have not been observed by the troops, who become lazy the following morning."

Snow, Sleet, Freezing Rain Ice Roads, Stall Traffic

STROUDSBURG — Three to five inches of snow, sleet and freezing rain on New Year's day made watching college football games on television a particularly pleasant pastime.

But hazardous driving conditions developed early on the first day of 1964 and got progressively worse when many holiday travelers began their homeward trips.

The freezing rain was expected to end early this morning. Today's forecast called for windy and cloudy conditions with snow flurries throughout most of the day, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau at the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport.

Don Thompson, weather bureau meteorologist, said .08 of an inch of freezing rain and .31 of melted precipitation had fallen by 8 p.m. yesterday. The overnight low was 10 degrees at midnight Wednesday.

Truckers Driving. State police at Stroudsburg and Mount Pocono said driving conditions were treacherous on all area roads last night.

A spokesman for the State Department of Highways in Stroudsburg said the department had 85 men and 36 pieces of equipment out clearing roads since early yesterday morning.

He said driving was bad because once roads were cleared of snow the freezing rain made them extremely slippery.

Rt. 80 Tie-Up. Icy roads caused a major traffic tie-up at the East Stroudsburg exchange on Interstate 80 yesterday at 7 p.m.

Drivers found it impossible to climb a grade in the road at that point and cars were backed up to the Delaware Water Gap Bridge.

Rain, sleet and snow covered the entire Pennsylvania Turnpike. House trailers and vehicles in tow were banned over the entire Turnpike yesterday.

Buses loaded with holiday travelers were reported running several hours behind schedule.

Stolen Car. Weymouth, Mass. (AP) — Somebody who misappropriated another man's car left some advice for the owner.

William McKinney reported his 1963 station wagon stolen from its parking place behind a drug store Sunday. Police found it Monday, unharmed. But under the windshield wiper police found a handwritten message which they passed on to the owner.

It said: "Notify the Weymouth police to check this registration and notify the owner not to leave his keys in the car."

Storm Paralyzes Pennsylvania

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The new year slipped into Pennsylvania with a cover of snow, rain, freezing rain and sleet that left residents from Erie to Philadelphia and from Easton to Waynesburg skidding on their feet and in their cars.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said that by the time the holiday ended at midnight some parts of the state had as much as eight inches of new snow.

The depth ranged from a dusting in the southeast to deep accumulations along the New York state border.

Where the snowfall wasn't heavy, freezing rain and sleet coated the state.

Samuel S. Baxter, Philadelphia highway coordinator, described the storm, which began in the dawn's early light, as the worst ice coat in his memory.

Almost as quickly as Philadelphia's 4 crews spread salt to melt the ice, the streets and highways were slicked again by the freezing rain.

Hospitals reported a greater than usual number of pedestrians treated or admitted for injuries suffered in falls.

Clearing was predicted for Thursday. Temperatures were expected to rise into the 20s over the entire state — in many areas for the first time in days.

Cars Skid In Collision

MILFORD — State Police at Milford yesterday investigated a two car accident 14 miles west of Milford on Rt. 6. They reported no injuries and little damage.

The drivers were Philip Brady of Lord's Valley, Pa., and Quinto Cambietto of Trumbull, Conn.

Police said that Brady was traveling west and Cambietto was going east on Rt. 6. They were rounding a curve in the highway when the cars skidded on the icy highway and collided.

Rockefeller's Baby

The announcement that Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York and his new wife "Happy" are expecting a child in June may sink his presidential stock even lower.

The only declared candidate for the Republican nomination suffered what many politicians and pollsters considered a fatal blow when he married "Happy" Murphy, mother of four children, after she and he had been divorced from other spouses.

The effect of a divorce and remarriage to a divorced woman on Rockefeller's "image" as a leader of the nation and the free world was clearly negative.

He took a dip in the popularity polls and did not bounce back after Kennedy's assassination, when some lesser possibilities like Ambassador John Cabot Lodge or Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania won increased support.

The new baby, expected to arrive in June, 1964, just before the Republican National Convention in July, will emphasize and further publicize the fact that both Rockefeller and his wife were divorced, remarried and then started another family.

The governor has said again and again, that it is a highly personal affair and one which the nation's voters and politicians should judge only as a personal affair.

Unfortunately, a man who is running for President of the United States must expect his personal life to be inspected, dissected and criticized. Especially when it is unusual or against the accepted conventions of morality.

Scranton Tips His Hand

Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania has let it be known that he will not object to having his name listed on the Oregon Republican presidential primary ballot May 15.

He has thus admitted for the first time that he is interested in running for President.

Scranton was forced to make his decision by a peculiar provision of the Oregon election law.

The Oregon secretary of state is required to list by March 6 all candidates mentioned in national news media.

Those who have been mentioned but who do not want to be listed on the Oregon primary ballot must swear an oath that they have no intention of becoming a presidential candidate.

Those who do not think divorce is immoral may criticize it on the ground that it is bad for the children involved and a bad example for society in general.

The fact that the former Mrs. Murphy already has four children by her first marriage, aged 12, 10, 7 and 3—will not be forgotten by married women of America struggling to bring up their children properly and happily.

The fact that she left her first husband, married a divorced man and is now having another child may even be criticized as irresponsible or even frivolous.

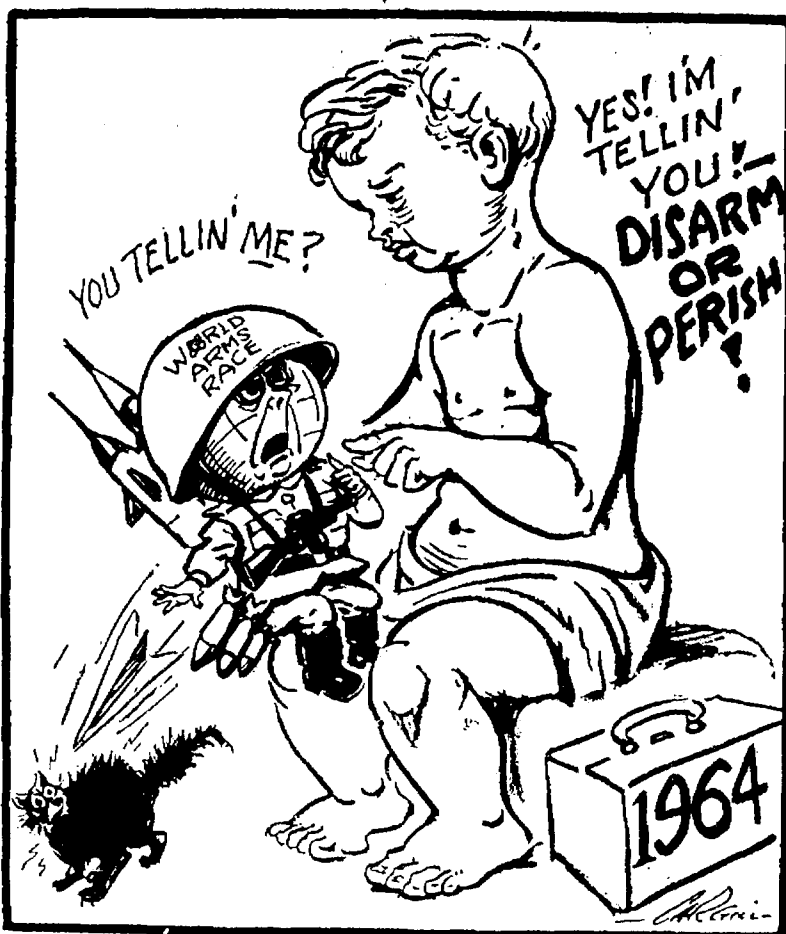

The governor's five children are grown and married, except for Michael who drowned in the South Pacific on an anthropological expedition. But the married women of America will not forget that he left his wife after many years of marriage.

Rockefeller's private life cannot help being compared with that of the assassinated President Kennedy. He was a regular church-going, loyal father and devoted husband who obviously loved his wife and children.

These criticisms of Rockefeller and comparisons with Kennedy may seem to be prudish, old fashioned, back woods morality.

But they are the thoughts that go through the minds of most Americans who want a "perfect man" as their President and national figurehead.

Rockefeller no longer measures up to that high standard of personal character which Americans want to find in their Presidents.

Wisdom From The Mouths Of Babes

The Pennsylvania Story

State Power Struggle

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — The new year 1964 is destined to be another year of "power struggle" for Pennsylvania's Legislature.

This most certainly is one factor well worth noting and remembering as Pennsylvania's lawmakers head into their regular 1964 session next week — and worth bearing in mind too as important and election-critical November 1964 looms on the horizon.

The "composition" — the political make-up and complexion, that is — of the current lawmaking body that on Tuesday will descend once again on Capitol Hill, is of far greater import than generally realized.

It will be changed this fall when voters of the Keystone State trot to the polls to vote in (or out) of office their local representatives.

The current 210-member State House of Representatives, for example, is squeakily controlled 108-98 (four vacancies) by administration Republicans — "squeakingly" is perhaps as good a word to use as any inasmuch as it requires 105 votes to pass legislation in the lower chamber.

On the other side of legislative corridors the story is similar. In this 50-member chamber the count now stands at 27 administration Republicans and 24 opposition Democrats — with in this instance 26 votes required to pass legislation.

While administration control of the Senate does "exist" at present, if only by a senatorial whim or two, it doesn't present the unprecedented spectacle that persisted during 1961 and 1962 when 25-25 court — a condition that all but unnerved the then in office Democratic Lawrence Administration.

In this year 1964 all 209 seats in the House of Representatives (reduced from 210 in the redistricting shuffle of last year's special session) will be up for filling in the fall along with half of the 50 seats in the Senate.

What will happen when the showdown comes in November of course is anyone's guess, but we'll most certainly eat our hat (!) should the same line-up by some odd and freakish circumstance be returned to legislative halls.

Assuming this will not (and cannot) happen, the possibility then arises that either administration Republicans or anti-administration Democrats may gain control — unchanged control, that is — or both (or either) House and Senate this year.

Should this develop for administration Republicans the tenuous and high-powered

The Allen-Scott Report

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is giving Secretary of State Rusk a free hand to try to avoid, if possible, any new Soviet crisis this year.

The President authorized Rusk to use all forms of communications and diplomatic contacts with the Russian leaders to negotiate a set of ground rules to govern U.S. - Soviet relations in 1964.

By proposing this unannounced detente with Russia, President Johnson hopes to prevent Premier Khrushchev from creating new crisis over Berlin and Cuba while the U.S. is in the midst of a presidential campaign and a bitter congressional debate on civil rights.

According to congressional leaders, the President's instructions to Secretary Rusk were in the form of an endorsement of a National Security Council policy paper titled "National Policy Objectives."

The policy paper calls for "crisis avoidance" with the Russians and provides for the establishment of "ground rules" for U.S. - Soviet competition, stating:

"During the crucial months ahead, we should welcome temporary and partial accommodations or detentes with the USSR. We should seek to develop the basis for these agreements by further expanded contacts and exchanges with top Soviet leadership."

"Soviet policy remains systematically geared to create and to exploit openings for the extension of Soviet power and influence offered by political unrest, economic sluggishness, diplomatic disarray, and military weakness within the free community."

"In addition to developing a full spectrum of military capabilities which will make the Communists hesitate to employ force at any level (including guerrilla warfare and urban insurrection), we must seek to minimize the emergence of circumstances and situations which permit such Communist pressures and intervention."

"The modernization process in the underdeveloped areas, including the process of disengagement from colonialism, has offered the richest field for Communist exploitation of crises within the free community."

Preventive Action — In defining negotiating guide-lines for Secretary Rusk, the NSC policy paper encourages the use of preventive diplomacy, as follows:

"A high premium attaches, therefore, in the contest of U.S. - Soviet relations not merely to the constructive policy of this government aiding the less-developed areas, but also to the timely identification of points of crises and forehanding action to resolve such crises before they land themselves to Communist exploitation. A systematic effort should be mounted to this end."

To avoid or minimize crises promoted or exploited by the Soviet Union, we should seek continuing communications, informal as well as formal, direct as well as indirect, designed to convey to Moscow a clearer understanding of our intentions. Such communications, if they are judged in Moscow to be backed by both military resources and the will to use them, may move the Communist leadership to judge it unprofitable to press as hard as they otherwise would in certain areas and situations."

Other Objectives — In addition to authorizing Secretary Rusk to negotiate an informal detente with Russia, the President has given him two other major objectives.

As outlined in the policy paper, they are:

"Work out over the longer run tacit understandings with the Soviet as to the ground rules governing our competition throughout the world."

"Close out any crises that should arise with the Soviet Union as quickly as possible with as little violence as consistent with avoiding any net loss for U.S. interests."

President Johnson also agreed to continue the exchange of letters with Premier Khrushchev on major issues as was carried on by the late President Kennedy.

He notified Secretary Rusk that he approves of this form of summery during 1964 rather than any face-to-face confrontation with the Soviet leader. A personal meeting should be delayed until after the presidential elections, according to Johnson.

White House Diplomacy — When Sir Alec Douglas-Home visits President Johnson early this year, he will bring a sensational proposal that could stir up a major dispute inside the President's cabinet. The British Prime Minister will propose that the two countries jointly produce an improved version of the Skybolt missile. The new missile, which British scientists and technicians have been working on ever since President Kennedy canceled the joint U.S. - British Skybolt program, could be launched at low altitude from an aircraft flying under the enemy radar defenses. Defense Secretary McNamara, who recommended canceling the Skybolt project, is reported still opposed to any joint U.S. - British missile program because of the cost.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

SILHOUETTE — In 1733, Etienne de Silhouette was named French minister of finance. A war in which France was involved had just ended, and the government was financially exhausted. In order to rebuild the country's finances, De Silhouette adopted severe economic measures. Costs were cut as much as possible. The money-saving program extended even to paintings. Instead of having portraits painted, it became the fashion to have outlines drawn of the profile and filled in with black. These outlines looked like shadows cast upon a wall. From the name of the man who popularized them, these shadowlike pictures are called "silhouettes."

Len Hall Courted

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — The man most courted by Republican aspirants for president has sent the woosers the most non-committal holiday greetings.

The suitors are Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, whose current address is Albany, N.Y.; Senator Barry Goldwater whose permanent address bids fair to be Phoenix, Ariz., and former vice president Richard M. Nixon, of no fixed address, as they say on the police blotters.

All are laying suit to former Republican National chairman Len Hall. Each wants Len for his very own as campaign manager.

Rockefeller courted Len in person. So did Nixon. Goldwater did a latter day courtship of Miles Standish. He had Senator John C. Tower of Texas go to Len and pop the question, a la John Alden.

Len didn't say to Tower, "speak for yourself John." He turned aside the Tower pleas as deftly as he did the tender importunings of Rockefeller and Nixon.

But Len didn't forget the Christmas spirit. He sent to each one of his suitors this identical Christmas card: "May Christmas and New Year bring you joy and happiness. Gladys and Len Hall." Rockefeller, Nixon, and Goldwater may have read that part. "Bring you joy and happiness," over and over, hoping to find some hidden significance. But they couldn't have found it. The holiday greetings doesn't even commit Hall to help bring them joy and happiness.

All the petitioners want the former GOP national chairman to guide them because they think he is the last guy left in the party with national campaign experience. Hall flopped as Nixon's campaign manager in 1960, but the three hopefuls hearken back to 1956 when he chairmanned Dwight D. Eisenhower to the presidency.

Rocky, Goldy and Nixy think Len may still have some victory stuff clinging to him from Ike, and that it will rub off on them.

Hall may still succumb to the blandishments of one of the courtiers, but it is the belief at Republican national headquarters here that, if he does, the chosen one will not be Nixon.

Hall is still peeved at Nixon from 1960. His plaint is that although he had the name of being Nixon's chief campaign advisor, he didn't have the game. He has heeded to virtually everyone in high GOP places that Nixon wouldn't listen to him; in fact ignored him — or, as Hall has often put it so plaintively to confidantes:

"When I tried to see him I couldn't get through the California Mafia."

"The betting is that Hall will soon choose one of the three because he has the best feeling out of politics. But, for the nonce, he is committed only to wishing all of them joy and happiness."

The general AP wire that goes to all clients carried this message:

"Private to the Associated Press staff around the world: 'My very best wishes to you and yours for the holiday season and my personal thanks and that of the members for jobs well done during the past year. You can take pride in reporting and transmitting accurately and professionally one of the most emotional and exciting..."

The accurate and professional wire stopped cold there, not even indicating which field commander was sending his personal thanks.

Lateral, however, the people in charge of "transmitting accurately and professionally" came through with this:

"My very best wishes to yours for the holiday season and my personal thanks (something must have happened to the tanks) and that of the members for jobs well done during the past year. You can take pride in reporting and transmitting accurately and professionally one of the most emotional and exciting news items in modern times. (Signed) Wes Gallagher (General Manager)."

Some school children were busily engaged on their knees on the floor in the back of the classroom. The teacher entered, and asked, "What are you doing?" One little fellow explained, "We're shoo'ing craps." "Thank heavens," retorted the teacher, "for a moment I thought you were praying."

Compromise — The Constitution of the United States is the compromise that our forefathers made with human nature

Off The Record: —By BOB CLARK

Let's Honor Schoonover

Bill Schoonover is in his senior year at Syracuse University. For three years of varsity ball, the ex-Stroud Union football star has given the Grange of Ben Schwartz-waller some of the finest football ever asked of a collegian.

For three years, Schoonover has brought to Stroudsburg publicity that sells for a hundred dollars a word if one was to purchase the "pitch" on television where an announcer says "Bill Schoonover of Stroudsburg carried the ball for 12 yards against Boston College" or Orange football, Bill Schoonover, just brought down two would-be tacklers with a vicious block, enabling Syracuse quarterback Rich King to roll out for 21 yards."

On radio, countless times the name of Schoonover and his school, Stroud

Union, were brought to the ear of the listeners. You might have heard an air speller shout, "It was Schoonover, the Stroud Union of Stroudsburg graduate, who brought down Army's Ken Wal-drop."

"Or it might have been this way:

"Syracuse halfback Bill Schoonover has been named by the sports writers and sports casters as the North's 'best defensive player in today's game between the Blues and Grays at Montgomery, Alabama."

In his small way, Bill Schoonover did something for us in the Poconos. First of all, he pointed out by his excellent play for the Orange and Blues and that the Poconos turn out some pretty good football material.

Secondly, he had to be a pretty fair country player to enjoy the talent-searching eyes of the Pittsburgh Steelers, New York Jets, New York Giants, Philadelphia Eagles, Cleveland Browns and the Baltimore Colts.

Lastly, but certainly not the least, his efforts on the gridiron at Syracuse brought not only satisfaction to his coaches but to the hundreds of fans who followed his career closely.

In short Bill Schoonover is quite a football player.

It seems a testimonial is in order for the former student at the West Main St. school. Perhaps some organization could pick up the ball and establish a Bill Schoonover Day in the locale.

Perhaps, his old teammates of Mountaineer days, plus some of his Syracuse buddies would like to come to town and extoll what "Schoonover meant to them."

Recently we have noticed scores of stories in other papers whereby hometowns are honoring or will honor grid stalwarts who were lesser lights when you mentioned them in the same breath with Schoonover. Why not here in Stroudsburg?

This corner is open to suggestions.

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

In many parts of the country snow is "bustin' out all over." Driveways will soon be bulging with accumulations of hard, packed-down snow whose sheer white loveliness will disappear after the first shoveling session.

The frost, the winds, the ice and the falling snow drive the man of the house indoors and allow him to meditate near a welcome fire... meditate on how he is going to get his car out of the driveway in the morning.

The pressure of work at the office, meetings and time tables insist that a decision be made. Does he shovel the snow now, or does he take a chance that the early morning sun will melt it down? Hopefully, he goes off to bed.

In the morning, comes the rude awakening. The early morning sun had not melted the snow, and the seven dwarfs had taken the night off. In short, the driveway is lost under a thick white blanket, and the garage door is hopelessly barricaded.

Now there is no time for meditation. The situation calls for action... vigorous action. Our man has a job to do. He is past 40, has a family to support. Is there any reason why he can't tackle this shoveling?

Affirmative Answer — Yes, there is a very good reason why he should not attempt this strenuous work. Anyone who has reached middle-age, or who is overweight or who has marked or moderate high blood pressure or a history of any chronic illness, or anyone who leads the athletic life of a chess player should proceed with caution before he suddenly undertakes such exhausting exercise as snow shoveling.

These people are strongly advised to save their energy, to preserve their health and, possibly even their lives. Snow clearance should not be converted into a health hazard by arduous exercise that overburdens the heart.

Work For The Young — This is work for the young heart. It is not sufficient to be "young at heart." Sons in the family, young neighbors who would like to earn a little extra money, students of whom snow shoveling can be good preparation for spring training... these are the people who should be recruited for the job.

When a man over 40 whose exercise is generally limited throughout the year suddenly digs in to do a rigorous snow clearance job, he is showing a lack of proper respect for his heart. A clean driveway is not worth the heart damage he is exposing himself to by this exhausting, taxing exercise.

In areas where heavy snow becomes a real and constant problem each winter, the possibility of a mechanically powered snow blower should be considered.

Community leaders are suggesting a share-the-snow-plov program. The cost of an excellent motor-driven plow can be taught to operate these plows with safety and reliability. This, at first, seems to be a rather elaborate program for snow removal, but the dividends are in great personal health.

Sensible preparation for snow removal can be classed as good preventive medicine. Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Avoiding Crisis

Dear Abby

In Defense Of Dallas

DEAR ABBY: I know there isn't one chance in a million of getting this in the paper, but I am going to write it anyway. I am eleven years old and I feel terrible. I live in Dallas and I want the whole world to know that not everybody in Texas is like the man who shot our wonderful President. It isn't fair that Texas should get a bad name because of one crazy mixed-up killer. Both Abraham Lincoln and James Garfield were assassinated in Washington, D.C. and nobody held it against them. McKinley was shot in Buffalo and they didn't blame everybody in the State of New York. Please print this, Abby, because it will mean a lot to so many good people.

DAVID IN DALLAS

DEAR DAVID: I'll print your letter, but intelligent people all over the world already know that what you say is true. The ignorant we can only hope to educate. Those we can't educate we can pray for.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a lady who asks her dates to pay her baby sitter and she tells the dates that her sitter charges 75c an hour, but the sitter charges only 50c an hour, and the lady keeps the extra 25c herself?

THE BABY SITTER

DEAR SITTER: Not much!

2 Years Of Free College Education Asked

By Robert S. Van Fleet
Chief, Ottawa News Service
WASHINGTON — A 20-member national commission proposed yesterday that two years of free college education be made available to all the youth of the country in the same manner as they now get free elementary and high school instruction.

The proposal, if implemented, would pile a new revolution on top of one that many educators say is already taking place.

The Educational Policies Commission, affiliated with the National Education Assn. and the American Assn. of School Administrators, is striving for a substantial innovation during a period that is emerging as an era of historic advances.

Landmark Legislation
It comes at the close of the 1963 congressional session that produced more than $3.6 billion in education authorizations, including the landmark bill that provides $1.2 billion for college construction aid.

At the same time, many states, including Pennsylvania, are sharply stepping up the level of support for both public schools and colleges.

Yesterday's commission report was in a 40-page book, "Universal Opportunity for Education Beyond the High School." "American youngsters," the commission said, "need two more years of free public education aimed at intellectual growth after they graduate from high school."

Revolutionary
Members of the commission are aware of the revolutionary nature of their proposal.

"The nation as a whole has never accepted the idea of universal opportunity as applying to education beyond the high school. It is time to do so."

The report linked the ability to fulfill responsibilities of citizenship with the ability to think and with possession of a greater understanding of self.

Two more years of free public education could capitalize on students' emerging maturity, the report says.

"Many four-year colleges today devote the first two years of their program to general education, with specialized education initiated in the third year."

High Costs Certain
Estimates of the cost of the proposal are not available, although the commission acknowledged that the costs "are certain to be high."

The plan envisages the expansion of capacities of existing and new four-year colleges, in addition to a system of two-year colleges "that should exist everywhere possible."

Nor, say the commission, should the two-year schools be selective in admitting students. They should expand their range beyond their immediate environs through radio, television, self-teaching devices, extension programs, and correspondence courses.

It is recommended that payment of the bill for the program should come "from every possible source, including private business." The commission adds that the "major share of this increase must come from governments, for society as a whole derives much of the benefit."

Government Support
"At all levels of government, there should be an increase in the support of the entire enterprise of education."

While the report suggests that "non-selective colleges," open to any high school graduate who applies, should exist "in every population center," it is observed that some students will have to travel and perhaps live away from home.

It is this aspect of college that is most difficult when it comes to providing free education — including free board and room and travel.

The commission has reviewed most of the current practices used to relieve the burden of the cost of college education.

They include scholarships by schools, foundations, and businesses, tax relief for school expenses, student work programs, special savings accounts.

"These measures would reduce the financial burden or spread it over time, but they do not go to the heart of the need... The clear requirement is for a public policy that the thirteen and fourteen years of education in public colleges be free of cost to the student."

Argument in favor of government acceptance of the major share of the cost is based on the theory that more education produces greater earnings power, with the resulting higher tax contributions.

Veterans Returns
"The Veterans Administration," the report says, "has suggested that the G.I. Bill of Rights the largest and most generous scholarship programs ever undertaken by the national government — ended up costing the people nothing; the benefits have been paid back in increased taxes more than they received in benefits."

The report emphasizes that it is a result of special study by a special group and that it has not been endorsed by the sponsoring organizations.

Japan Starts A Peace Corps

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese government decided Sunday to set aside $11,666 to launch its own version of the U.S. Peace Corps.

The government reportedly plans to dispatch young technical experts to help in industrial, scientific and agricultural development in Southeast Asia, the Middle East and South America.

3.7 Million Students At 1,097 U.S. Colleges

Who is going to college now?

Enrollment in the current school year has been put at 3.7 million full- and part-time students at 1,097 accredited colleges in the United States and Puerto Rico.

This represents an increase of 6.3 per cent over the year before.

Dr. Garland G. Parker, University of Cincinnati registrar wrote in "School and Society," an educational journal, that the nation should be "ready for a jolt" again this fall and in 1965 when huge freshman classes report.

An increase of 20 per cent in total enrollments is looked for this year, with another 12 per cent in 1965.

The Washington study of the Educational Policies Commission says the college population in 1970 will be "somewhere between 6 and 7 million."

"Expenditures in 1970 (excluding capital outlay, board and room, and auxiliary enterprises and assuming no further inflation) would rise to somewhere around $10 billion as opposed to $2.8 billion in 1957-58."

Two trends, says the commission, are pushing college enrollments up each year:

1. The number of high school graduates has been increasing at an average of about 1.5 per cent

Pope's Trip Is 'First'

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The pilgrimage of Pope Paul VI to the Holy Land promises a momentous enactment of a powerful surge for renewal within the Roman Catholic Church.

Never before has a Pope gone from Rome to the birthland of Christ.

Never has a Pope traveled by airplane.

Never has a Pope voyaged so far from Italy.

Not since the early 19th century—when Pius VII went to France for the coronation of Napoleon—has a Pope been out of Italy.

But Pope Paul's trip in early January, with all its color and pageantry, will be only a prelude to a vastly more significant spiritual journey the Pope is embarking upon.

Pilgrimage
Many here are calling the trip a new "Pauline pilgrimage."

The reference is to the travels of St. Paul, who journeyed widely in the east—Palestine, Arabia, Syria, Armenia, Greece—in erecting the foundations of his religion at the dawn of Christianity.

Now, 20 centuries later, Pope Paul is seeking to lay lasting foundations in the cause of Christian unity—the immense task of bringing all Christians into one fold.

He has said he hopes his pilgrimage to the Holy Land will serve that cause. It takes him from Rome, the seat of his own church, to the shrines of Palestine that are venerated by all Christians—Catholics, Protestants and Orthodox. There are also holy places of Judaism and Islam, with whose people Christians share the belief that there is but one God.

International
In one phase the trip of the Italian-born pontiff may serve to give impetus to the movement to internationalize the Vatican administration. By leaving Italy, on what may be the first of many and more distant travels, the Pope is showing that he is the spiritual ruler of the world's 550 million Catholics and not Italians alone.

Along with this, the trip also may have significance for the internal debate within the Church on the extent to which the Vatican should be decentralized. This has been an issue at the Ecumenical Council. By going far from the center of power represented by the Vatican, the Pope may be intending to demonstrate another aspect of decentralization.

Orthodox Meeting
In carrying forward contacts with other Christians begun by his predecessor, Pope John XXIII, Pope Paul has shown a special interest in the Orthodox. He issued a stirring plea last August for Roman Catholics and Eastern Orthodox to tear down the barriers of separation dating from the 11th century. The pontiff referred to the Orthodox as "these venerable and holy Oriental churches."

Despite enthusiasm shown by some Orthodox leaders there are others deeply suspicious of any serious theological contact with Rome, however.

Beyond the spiritual sphere, the visit also could have political consequences. Despite the Vatican's emphasis on the religious aspects of the pilgrimage the fact remains that the head of the Roman Catholic Church is going to a land riven by strife between the Arab nations and the Jewish-ruled state of Israel.

Holy Land War
Israel and the countries around it are still technically in a state of war, with animosity and suspicion still so strong that border crossings are restricted.

The Pope has called his pilgrimage a mission of peace and some have expressed hope that the unprecedented 1,500-mile journey may help to allay anger and suspicion in the turbulent Middle East.

But for the world at large, the trip will create a new conception of the ruler of the Roman Catholic Church—no longer a traditional Pope who governs from a guarded headquarters in Rome.

It will serve to dramatize that the fresh wind desired by the late Pope John is indeed blowing through the Catholic Church.

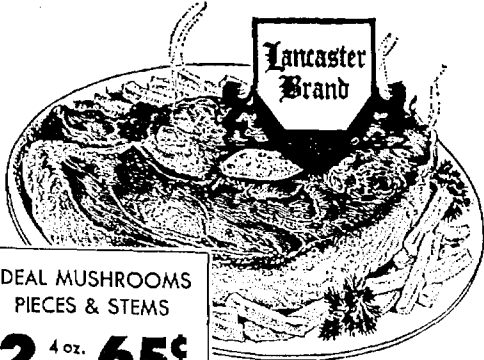

Greeks Set Feb. 16 Election

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Faced by an unbreakable Cabinet crisis, King Paul on Monday ordered a new national election for Greece—the second in this nation since Nov. 3.

He chose Ioannis Paraskevoudis, 63, an economist, to head a nonpolitical caretaker Cabinet to govern until the election Feb. 16.

It meant the fourth government for Greece since Constantine Karamanlis resigned in June after eight years in office. It also marked a new stage of growing political uncertainty for Greece, caught up once more in a Cyprus crisis endangering Greece's relations with Turkey. Its ally in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Scranton Sets Election For Green Seat

HARRISBURG (AP)—A special election will be held April 28 in conjunction with the primaries to name a successor to the late William J. Green Jr., Democratic congressman from Philadelphia. Green died Dec. 20. Gov. Scranton called the special election Tuesday.

At the same time house speaker W. Stuart Helm set the day for special elections to fill vacancies in the state house.

These involve the terms of Leo A. McKeever, Philadelphia Democrat who died Nov. 11; 11; William Gray, Philadelphia Democrat who died last "Thursday; Albert W. Johnson, McKean County Republican, elected to an interim term in congress; and Gus P. Verona, Northampton County Democrat named to succeed U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney in the state senate.

Democrat Declares For US Senate

HARRISBURG (AP) — State Sen. William J. Lane of Washington County has become the first Democrat to announce his candidacy for the U. S. Senate.

In a statement released Tuesday, Lane, the Democratic whip in the state senate, said:

"I recently informed the executive members of the state Democratic committee that I would be highly honored should I be favorably considered as the Democratic candidate for United States senator."

Hugh Scott, R-Pa., currently holds the seat which Lane plans to seek. Scott is expected to win renomination for the Republicans.

Other names mentioned in Democratic circles are Milton J. Shapp, Philadelphia Industrialist, and Genevieve Blatt, secretary of internal affairs.

Neither has announced however. But Shapp has scheduled a breakfast news conference Thursday.

Lane is a 58-year-old real estate and insurance man from West Brownsville. He came to the senate in 1946 after four years in the house.

State GOP To Discuss Candidates

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Republican state executive committee will meet in Harrisburg Jan. 11 to discuss potential statewide candidates and delegates for this year's national GOP convention at San Francisco.

The meeting was called Tuesday by Republican state chairman Craig Truax.

In addition to the U. S. Senate race and two superior court judgeships, a new state treasurer and auditor general will be elected on a statewide basis in 1964. The latter two positions currently are held by Democrats.

Also scheduled are special elections in conjunction with the April 28 primary to fill vacancies in congress and the state house.

Harrisburg Gets $5 Tax On All Jobs

HARRISBURG (AP)—A new $5 tax went into effect Wednesday for all workers employed in the city of Harrisburg, regardless of where they reside.

The levy, called an occupation privilege tax, was adopted by city council Tuesday to raise an estimated $200,000 a year in added revenue for the city.

Acting Mayor Daniel Barry said the new ordinance provides for refunds to all persons making less than $800 a year.

The council also stamped final approval on a record $4.6 million budget for 1964.

Scranton Team Boasts Diversity

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI
Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Scranton Team combines the sometimes fresh idealism of youth with the political savvy of the experienced professional.

The Team consists of the "IN" people, the men who are closest to Gov. Scranton, the men who have his ear, the men who counsel him when asked, and often times when not.

These are men such as Walter Alessandrini, first Scranton's gubernatorial campaign manager, second his attorney general and always, since politics tied them together, his closest personal advisor.

Or William Keisling, assistant to the governor at age 27, the idea factory of the inner circle and, usually, whether accurate or not, the fall guy for the faux pas.

Team Intellectual

Or A. James Reichley, a Pottsville native of Ivy League cloth, the intellectual of the team, the governor's legislative secretary.

There's William G. Murphy, Scranton's executive secretary after 10 years in the political wars with U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, the quiet man of the administration.

There's also Jack L. Conny, Scranton's efficient press secretary, a former Scranton newspaperman turned industrial public relations professional, a man who never engaged in active politics before the appeal of Scranton's personality recruited him to the 1962 gubernatorial campaign.

And finally, there's the old pro, George I. Bloom, Republican state chairman from 1956 to 1962 and now secretary of the Commonwealth. Bloom's the professional's professional.

There are others on the Team, of course, but these are the Big Six.

Own Boss

Scranton is his own boss, but when he needs help, he'll turn to these people, either individually, collectively or in groups.

Each, in his fashion, serves a specific purpose, but his counsel is never limited to only one area.

If any one man could be described as Scranton's all-purpose advisor, it's Alessandrini, 48, dapper Philadelphia lawyer with a good sense of humor and an easy manner.

But his casual approach can be misleading. For, above all else, the attorney general has a keen, hard political mind.

He is Scranton's confidant and counselor in much the same manner that Robert Kennedy served his late brother, John, in Washington.

And much like Robert Kennedy, Alessandrini can — without intention — make other politicians feel uncomfortable in his presence.

It has been reported that one county GOP leader said this of Alessandrini: "Walter is the kind of fellow who can smile and talk hard. You don't know whether to believe your ears or your eyes."

With Big Six

Keisling, a native of Scranton, is a relative newcomer to politics, although it is he among the Big Six who has served Scranton longest.

Keisling first joined Scranton in 1960 when the governor ran for Congress and won. They have been together since, and Scranton has great respect for him.

Keisling's respect for Scranton often borders on idolatry.

This, plus the fact that he is close to the governor, and new to politics, often makes him a target for critics of the administration.

In public, Scranton can do no wrong, according to Keisling. But this dynamo is not a yes man.

When Scranton has an idea, he will more likely than not seek Keisling out to test his reaction.

If Keisling doesn't like the idea, or Scranton doesn't like one of Keisling's, neither hesitates to say so and discuss it from there.

Murphy, 34, is the top man in the governor's office in terms of title (executive secretary) and salary ($20,000 annually). He's as introverted as Keisling is extroverted.

"Disarmingly quiet," was the way one associate described him.

A Washington, D.C. native and a lawyer, Murphy handles "political matters" for the governor — the day-to-day liaison with the county chairman and others who are looking for jobs or promises.

Good Listener

Murphy has a knack of being able to listen to all your problems without committing himself by expression or comment. As one man said:

"When you leave him, you know he's listened to what you had to say, but you don't know if you've swayed him with your case."

Reichley, at 35, is the "only true intellectual" on the staff. Whereas the others are more concerned with the how of things, Reichley is much concerned with the why.

He's philosophical, but he also is realistic. In his role as legislative secretary to the governor, he seems to have struck an efficient working rapport with the Republican majority in the Legislature.

He was educated at the University of Pennsylvania and Harvard. He has written two political novels, leading some to call him respectfully, albeit jokingly, "The Second John O'Hara," another Pottsville author.

Conny, 31, also is a native of Scranton who worked with Keisling for several years on a city newspaper.

One Friday in 1960, he left to go into industrial public relations. The following Monday, Keisling left to join the Scranton congressional campaign.

It was Keisling who first approached Conny about joining the gubernatorial campaign team. It was Scranton's approach which won him over.

Originally Cool

Bloom, at first, was considered cool to Scranton's candidacy, although he never did commit himself publicly on the issue.

Scranton was his first big winner, but no sooner was Scranton in as governor than Bloom was out as chairman.

The official family never will acknowledge this, but veteran observers believe that Bloom politely was put out to pasture so that Scranton could stock the state committee with his type of politician.

Bloom soon showed that he had the knowledge to be a valuable consultant — especially on politics.

His influence continued to grow until he now is considered an intimate part of the Scranton Brain Trust.

The Scranton Team is loyal. This loyalty makes everything in state government appear to radiate from the governor.

NEW CONSTRUCTION OUR SPECIALTY

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, so far I haven't broken any New Year's resolutions. Of course the fact that I limited them to one broad generalization: "I will be more organized" helped, because, so far, all that has involved is putting my gloves in my coat pocket, my rain hat in my coat sleeve and my boots both in one place. It will, undoubtedly, get more complicated as time goes on.

There is no valid reason why one minute after a certain midnight should be any different than one minute before. It is entirely an illusion that, as the ball drops over Times Square, or the chimes ring from Big Ben, or whatever happens elsewhere in the world at midnight, that there should be a sort of celestial speedometer in which wheels whirl and digits revolve and finally everything comes up 1964.

I find that in 1964, I am still more interested in the specific than in the general. In saying a fond farewell to Joe Cusack, who is off to his new job in Port Jervis although fortunately for us his family will stay in East Stroudsburg until the end of the school year.

In welcoming Frank Paretti and his wife and baby daughter, who seems to enjoy parties as much as her mother who, during her high school days, pinch-hitted on the social page in Ononta.

In popping in on the teenage party at the Farmers where they were making more noise than Times Square. In seeing Claud Cramer's 24-carat gold putter at the New Year's breakfast. In reminiscing about old New Year's Eve parties at the Penn-Stroud where the indiscretions may not have been any wilder but were certainly more public than in today's private parties.

In hearing about Mary Driebe's New Year's supper which, in compliment to Ed, consisted of all Lelandese dishes including lamb seasoned with cumin and other Biblical herbs.

Mrs. Philip M. Sabatine (Hartman Studio)

Miss Kathleen Musselman Bride Of Easton Teacher

Bangor—Miss Kathleen Sue Musselman, a senior at East Stroudsburg State College, and Philip M. Sabatine, a teacher in Easton Area High School, were married on Saturday in the Trinity Lutheran Church, Wind Gap.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Musselman, of Pen Argyl. Mr. Sabatine is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Michael N. Sabatine, of Bangor.

Rev. Richard D. Schlegel officiated at the candlelight ceremony.

The bride wore a ston silhouette gown in acetate peau de soie trimmed with Alencon lace with a cameo applique on the front of the bodice and skirt. Her floor-length veil of illusion fell from a lace headpiece trimmed in sequins and pearls.

Mrs. Robert Sparrow, Jr., was matron of honor and Miss Judith Walck was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Renee Bitz and Miss Dorothy Sabatine.

They wore gowns of cranberry satin and carried a single Pink Happiness rose.

The junior bridesmaids, Miss Lucille Sabatine and Miss Ann Marie Lee, wore rose taffeta gowns and carried a single Pink Happiness rose.

The flower girl, Kimberly Meisell, wore a pink taffeta gown.

Mason Mabius served as best man. Ushers were Drew Musselman, Larry Spiatto, Jeffrey Lee, Philip Sabatini, George Kressler and Matthew Sabatine.

Kevin Bitz and Michael Pacifico served as pages and Neil Catalano was ring bearer.

Mrs. Sabatine was graduated from Pen Argyl High School. As a senior at East Stroudsburg State College, she is a member of Sigma Tau Delta, National Honorary English fraternity.

Mr. Sabatine was graduated from Bangor High School and Moravian College. He is a teacher at Easton Area High School.

Clearing House Calendar Cautious On Winter Dates

Stroudsburg—Winter weather in the Poconos slows the special events scheduled by organization to a pace as cautious as that demanded of traffic on the slippery roads.

However, traditional events such as the annual Historical Society dinner which annually is held on or near the date of Jacob Stroud's birth, and the annual dinner of the Monroe County Council of Churchwomen brave January each year.

The detailed schedule listed for the Clearing House Calendar for special events which is maintained as a public service by the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs includes the following events, released yesterday by Mrs. Robert Hellmann, chairman.

January

Thursday, 9: Monroe County Council of Church Women, dinner meeting, Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Saturday, 11: Junior Woman's Club spaghetti supper, Stroud Twp. Municipal Building, 4 to 7 p.m.

Monroe County Historical Society business meeting, Stroud Community House, 2:30 p.m.

College entrance examinations for area.

Wednesday, 15: Monroe County Historical Society dinner meeting, Penn-Stroud Hotel, 6:30 p.m.

Friday, 17: School holiday.

Sunday, 26: Concert by Catholic Choral Club of Scranton sponsored by St. Matthew's School Parents Organization at East Stroudsburg State College.

February

In February, the calendar of special events lists: Dutch Treat Club, Penn-Stroud, 7 p.m.

Thursday, 6: Stroud Community Club fashion show, Camelback Ski Lodge, Tuesday, 11: Lent begins Sunday, 16: and the area schools will close for Washington's Birthday Friday, 21. The Pocono Community Concerts will present folk singers at East Stroudsburg College Auditorium on Monday, 24.

Tocks Island Real Estate Boom Highest In Monroe County

By Robert Van Fleet
Chief, Ottaway News Service.

Third of a Five-part Series

Most of the boom attributable to the eventual arrival of the $122 million Tocks Island Dam project is found toward the lower end of the proposed 3 mile lake in Monroe County, Pa.

Most real estate men, bankers, and government officials in the lower region agree that the economy is on the move.

They do not all agree that the activity is connected with the Tocks Island plan.

Pocono Boom

In recent years there has been a general economic upswing in the Pocono Mountain vacation area. New four-lane highways have been driven through, making the area more accessible.

New attractions such as enlarged resorts and a new ski area have attracted greater numbers of visitors.

But there is little disagreement that the federal government's plans for a reservoir and recreation area stretching from Stroudsburg to Port Jervis are having some effect.

There is almost no economic activity in the central river sector that will be flooded.

Action Nearby

But there is action — in some places plenty of it — in the sections adjacent to the lake bed.

The first strip outward from the lake on both sides is a proposed national recreation area, the first in the East, expected to draw seven million visitors a year and pumping almost $50 million into the economy.

The next strip is the land immediately facing the recreation land to be purchased by the federal government and on which private enterprise will operate hotels, motels, restaurants, gin mills, trailer courts, swank resorts, and hundreds of other service enterprises.

Real Estate Boom

It is about this region that Charles R. Bensinger, Stroudsburg attorney, reported a real estate boom.

Bensinger told the October annual meeting of citizens and officials concerned with development of the Delaware River Valley that real estate activity taking place today may be having the effect of raising values of land to be acquired by the federal government later.

He said that he was referring to land within the recreation area, not land to be flooded.

Subdivisions

Much of the real estate activity is in the sale of parcels subdivided from larger tracts. Buyers here are people who are looking ahead to having a place in the looming vacation region. Some are possibly speculating on the increase in value after the federal government finishes its project.

With the sale of land within what is expected to be the national recreation area, buyers now are told if the government takes it, they will get their money back.

A few may even expect a profit when they sell newly acquired land to the government.

The project on the Pennsylvania side of the river extends through two counties and seven townships. In Pike County it falls in Lehman, Delaware, Dingmans, Milford, and Westfall townships and the Boroughs of Milford and Matamoras.

In Monroe County it falls mainly in Middle Smithfield and some in Smithfield.

Officials in the Monroe County Assessor's office report that values in Middle Smithfield have risen steadily in the past few years at the rate of almost a half million dollars a year in full value.

The record of Monroe County deeds filed shows that there were 30 property transfers in 1960-61, 584 in 1961-62, 442 in 1962-63, not counting final year-end totals.

There is no record to show which of the deeds are for property within the potential flood area, within the park area, or outside it. Most, however, are believed to be outside.

Pike County Slowdown

The townships in Pike County, suffering from a retarded sale of land within the flood area, still show an increase of assessments each year, although generally at a slower rate than the overall county figure.

Assessments in Pike went up 5.6 per cent in 1962-63. The rise in Lehman Township, which includes the Village of Bushkill, was only 2 per cent. In the Borough of Milford it was 1 per cent.

Increases of 5 per cent were shown in Dingman, Milford, and Westfall Townships.

Total Pike value in the valley communities now comes to about $7.5 million by assessor's value, $22 million full value.

Tomorrow: Hidden Lake, part of the boom.

Cy Barrett Says

Starting Music Store

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

Not wanting to make a career of playing with an orchestra 'til all hours, I am thinking of starting a music store. The saxophone is my favorite musical instrument although I can also play piano and drums. I know a lot of musicians and am well known in the area. Assuming I could come up with the necessary cash, what do you think about this for me? What about the trends in selling musical instruments?

NO LATE

DEAR NO LATE:

Playing piano, drums, saxophone or a two-man tuba does not qualify as desirable background for opening a music store. Not that you can't force the cash register to pound out C - notes, but merchandising experience is preferable. Merchandisers, music teachers, and musicians, in that order, are attracted to music retailing. Only those with business judgment, who appreciate music retailing is 95 per cent promotion and 5 per cent of anything else, should get into the field today. Promoting means encouraging people to take music lessons, working with schools, and possibly operating a studio. Musical instrument sales are blasting along at the rate of $630 million annually. Sales in 1955 were only $380 million. It appears the effects of television on consumers (not musicians), increased purchasing power, more leisure time, and an upsurge in population curve are joining forces to popularize playing music. You won't hear "business is good" from music retailers unless you talk to the promoters. Music retailing can be an easy business... if you play it the hard way.

CY

DEAR CY:

My dark spectre of retirement has been transformed into expectation. One of your suggestions for me was to read "Sixty Five Plus" by Clarence Randall, published by Atlantic, Little, Brown. It brought me this: "The key to getting ready for retirement lies in honestly coming to believe that new excitement does, in fact, lie ahead." I am anticipating working in profitable handicrafts and again seek your suggestions.

CORY

DEAR CORY:

As I have often said, readers write this column and provoke extra benefits. Enclosed is a copy of my new list of "Hobby Sources in Handicrafts Which Can Lead To Profit." Any other reader, wishing a free copy, has only to write me, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. One of my favorite Randalls from this book is: "He (the retiree) can play whenever he wants to if he has not permitted his capacity for play to atrophy, yet he is not condemned to eternal play, which would be the saddest lot of all." Recalling my sadness after gazing into the Duke of Windsor's slack face, Randall's words pack wallop.

CY

DEAR CY:

At the time Burt and I were married, in 1961, I decided to quit charging at so many places. I was spending too much time paying a lot of lousy bills. Stores where I quit doing business still send me bills marked: "Balance Due... $5.00." They also send me notices of sales. Why? I thought these charge accounts would be closed by now.

BURT'S WIFE

DEAR BURT'S WIFE:

Retailers prize charge accounts! Gamblers, gypsies, vagabonds, and the few human beings with plenty of walking around money will shop anywhere. Those not laden with cash will usually buy where they have established credit.

After 12 to 18 months, customers who have not made purchases at a particular store think their charge account is closed. They get the inferior feeling of being crossed off a list. Rather than let customers suffer this traumatic experience, retailers remind them... for as long as three years (and more)... the account is open and all is forgiven.

Washington Bows, 17-7

Illinois Wins In Rose Bowl

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) —

Hard hitting Illinois, led by sophomore fullback Jim Grabowski and an alert defense, came from behind with two touchdowns in the last half to down a crippled but gallant Washington in the Rose Bowl Wednesday 17-7.

The No. 3-ranked champions of the Big Ten, trailing 7-3 at the half, mauled and punched their way to victory to end the Washington scourge over the Western Conference with victories in the 1960 and 1961 Rose Bowl battles.

George Donnelly intercepted a pass by the Huskies' Bill Siler in the third period to set up the go-ahead touchdown and Jim Warren on a pitchout from Mike Taliaferro skipped the final two yards.

Settles The Issue

The Illinois in the last quarter settled the issue before a crowd of 96,557, basking in sunny, mid-80 degree weather, with an 85-yard drive that consumed 18 plays.

Patriots Fear Hot Day

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Coach Mike Holovak is afraid that the heat may really be on his Boston Patriots Sunday, and he doesn't like it.

It's not the pressure that troubles him. It's the likelihood the weather will be uncommonly warm, by Boston standards, when the Patriots meet the San Diego Chargers for the American Football League championship.

"Our team is used to working in 16 to 18-degree temperatures," Holovak says. "In that kind of weather, you can run all day long. But in warm weather an athlete has a tendency to tire more easily."

But Holovak would just as soon it didn't rain Sunday. He thinks a dry field best suits his defense. In some games the Patriots put on a red-dog rush more than half the time. One of their safety men was caught off side in a game against San Diego this year.

The Chargers defeated the Patriots twice during the regular season. San Diego won 17-13 on a sunny day here in September and 7-6 on a cold, rainy November day in Boston.

The November game was the lowest-scoring contest in AFL history.

San Diego flanker back Lance Alworth tied an AFL record in that game with 13 receptions, gaining 218 yards. But Charger halfback Paul Lowe, the AFL's second leading rusher, didn't gain an inch. And fullback Keith Lincoln, the league's No. 4 rusher, gained only 34 yards.

Holovak respects all three. "That Alworth isn't the only one of the guys we have to worry about," he says. "Lincoln and Lowe—my gosh!"

This will be Boston's first championship game. The Chargers have been in two, the first in 1960 when they were in Los Angeles and the second in 1961. They lost both to Houston.

Coach Sid Gillman of the Chargers was in one other championship game, when he was coaching the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League in 1955. He lost that one, too, to Cleveland.

Ski Club Meets

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountain Ski Club will meet tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the YMCA. Prospective members are urged to attend.

The 207-pound Grabowski carried the ball 11 times in the downfield charge and smashed over from the one for the touchdown.

Illinois went into the game favored by a touchdown but the Huskies, champions of the Big Six, dominated this 50th anniversary Rose Bowl struggle in the first half. And they did it at dear cost.

Starting quarterback Bill Douglas went out of the game on a stretcher with a dislocated left knee on the first scoring threat on the first series of plays.

Receives Fumble
The Huskies, with Bill Siler taking over, went on to the 11-10 but Al Lybke, after taking a pass from Siler, fumbled and Illinois' Wylie Fox recovered.

Again the Huskies traveled downfield but the thrust collapsed on the 21 when Fox literally stole the ball from Siler for what went officially as a fumble—the second in the first quarter.

An Illinois fumble led to Washington's touchdown when Fred Custard, alternate quarterback, was hit and lost the ball to Washington's John Stupey on the 11-10-27.

Four plays later, Washington scored, with Dave Kopay taking a high pitchout from Siler and slanting seven yards for the score.

Again in this hard-battling game, a fumble led to a score—a 33-yard field goal on the last play of the half by Illinois' kicking specialist, Jim Plankenborn.

Nebraska Edges Auburn In Orange Bowl, 13 To 7

By BEN TUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nebraska's huge Cornhuskers surged to an early 13-0 lead Wednesday over Auburn and held off a furious Tiger rally led by All-America Jimmy Siddle to win the Orange Bowl game 13-7.

Dennis Claridge broke an Orange Bowl distance record by galloping 67 yards to a touchdown on the game's second play and after Dave Theisen kicked two field goals, the pro-size

Cornhuskers appeared on their way to a crushing victory.

But Auburn, giving up a 16-pound-per-man weight advantage in the line, but giving nothing in desire, stopped the nation's No. 1 rushing attack cold in the second half and fell just 11 yards short of pulling the game out in the final two minutes.

Siddle sped 13 yards for a touchdown on one of the wide sweeps that Auburn used to gain most of its yardage last fall and then passed and ran the Tigers 69 yards to the Nebraska 11 in a gallant bid for a winning touchdown.

Strengthened Hope
Nebraska, the nation's sixth-ranked team, gave the Big Eight its first victory over a Southeastern Conference foe in seven Orange Bowl games, and may have strengthened the Big Eight's hope for a renewal of the pact to furnish the host team for the annual Miami game.

The 222-pound Claridge broke through a huge hole at the right side on the second play of the game and gave only Billy Edge a chance to hit him in a touchdown run that broke the old record of 67 yards for a run from scrimmage in the Orange Bowl, set by Ned Peters of Mississippi in 1936. Edge slid off his flying body at the 15.

Pierre Attacks
The Cornhuskers launched two more fierce ground attacks in the first half, which ended with Theisen booting his field goals of 31 and 36 yards.

Up to this time, Auburn's rushes were being blunted by the Nebraska line and the Tiger cause seemed hopeless. With the gates closed by the Nebraska ends on wide rushes, Siddle took the Tigers to the air in the first half, but with no better luck.

Not until the third quarter did Auburn find its punch. Then the Tigers drove 71 yards to score and whittle Nebraska's lead to an uncomfortable six points. Siddle hit Bucky Waid with a 28-yard pass before sweeping in for the touchdown.

Auburn 0 0 7 0-7
Nebraska 10 3 0 0-13

Game Group To Set Dates
HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Game Commission announced Monday it will meet Jan. 10 in Harrisburg to set tentatively the opening dates for four hunting seasons next year.

The agenda includes date discussions on the 1964 archery, small game, bear and antlered deer seasons.

The commission also is scheduled to elect officers at the Jan. 10 meeting.

Greens Damaged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vandals damaged nine greens Sunday at the Rancho Park Golf Course, where the Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament starts Thursday.

OUT AT THE INN—This was a typical scene at The Inn, Buck Hill Falls, a half century ago when skiers had no mechanical devices such as ski lifts and tows. Activity this weekend has been planned to re-enact such scenes during observation of 50th anniversary of winter sports at this famous resort area.

50th Anniversary In Poconos

Buck Hill Falls Features Old-Fashioned Snow Sports

BUCK HILL FALLS — A ski race on barrel staves, a heringbone contest and a dog sled exhibition will highlight the 50th anniversary of winter sports this weekend at The Inn Buck Hill Falls.

Old-fashioned type methods and techniques will be the vogue for competition and demonstration at one of the oldest winter sports areas in the United States. Skiing made its debut at Buck Hill Falls in 1913 and thus became one of the first ski sites south of the New England States.

Golden Anniversary
This "Golden Anniversary" of winter sports in the Poconos will be marked by a dinner-dance at The Inn Saturday night, sponsored by the Pocono Vacationland Assn. of which Charles Sieg is president.

Also participating in the program will be Clifford R. Gilliam, president of Buck Hill Falls Co.; Richard Edgerton, general manager of The Inn, and Robert Stoenaker, director of the Travel Development Bureau Dept. of Commerce.

Guest speakers will include Ski Editors Frank Elkins of the Long Island Daily Press, Mike Strause of the New York Times, and Red Hoffman of the New York Herald Tribune.

An ice skating exhibition will be given Saturday by Joe McGuirk, skating instructor at Buck Hill and former Ice Capade skater.

Toured Europe
Before McGuirk came to America in 1936 he had been touring with various ice shows throughout Europe, taking part in specialty solos, comedy numbers, pairs and acrobatic stunts.

His professional career started in his hometown in England and later the Scala Ice Revue, on tour in Europe. Before joining the Ice Capades in '36, he was headlined at the Empress Hall in London.

The dog sled exhibition will be demonstrated by David Irwin of Tannersville.

Harry Drennan, chairman of the Ski Area Advisory Council who is currently observing his 44th year as director of winter sports at The Inn, is among the supervisors of the gala weekend event.

Since 1913, drastic changes have invaded winter sports to almost make these activities unrecognizable to those who can remember that far back. Mechanical devices such as ski lifts and snow-making machines have allowed winter sports to become a tremendous economic boost to the Poconos, as well as to other areas.

But Buck Hill Falls this weekend will be a "Winter Sports Revisited—Circa 1913."

Jurgenson Skis Here

BUCK HILL FALLS — Sonny Jurgenson, quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles, skied for the first time in his life here during a four-day visit at The Inn which started Sunday.

"I came down the big slope today (New Year's Day) and made it all the way without falling," he exclaimed.

He described skiing as "a great sport... a challenge." He also acknowledged that it's "very strengthening for the shoulders and legs."

Queried about the Giants-Bears game for the National Football League championship, Jurgenson said:

"The Giants made more mistakes than the Bears. Anytime you give up the ball five times on interceptions you're in trouble... the interceptions by the Bears were the key to the whole game."

He also noted that when Y. A. Tittle, Giants quarterback, was injured, it "had a great deal to do with the outcome of the game."

Kick: 4 Field Goals

Alabama's Davis Boots 'Em Home

By TOM DYGDARD

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tim Davis, a slender kicking specialist whose father played for Alabama in the glory days of the 1930s, booted four field goals Wednesday and led the Crimson Tide to a 12-7 victory over Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl.

Davis, a senior who hasn't run a play from scrimmage since he was injured as a high school quarterback, sent kicks of 48, 46, 31 and 22 yards through the uprights.

First his 46-yard kick, and then his 48-yard boot, were the longest field goals in any major bowl game in history.

His total of 12 points tied a record for individual point production in the Sugar Bowl.

The spectacular performance closed out Davis' collegiate career with a total of 23 field goals in three years. He got six of them in post-season games.

NFL Clubs Sign Two Collegians

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NATIONAL Football League Clubs continued to sign college football players Wednesday, signed much-pursued Nebraska linemen, Bob Brown and Lloyd Voss and now have contracts with 12 of their 14 first-round draft selections.

Brown, a guard, and Voss, a tackle, were signed after the Cornhuskers' 13-7 victory over Auburn in the Orange Bowl. The Philadelphia Eagles got Brown's signature and the Green Bay Packers lured Voss into the fold.

Brown was the No. 1 pick of Denver in the American Football League draft. Voss was a second-round selection of the AFL's New York Jets.

Checkbook War

The signings enabled the NFL to continue to overshadow the AFL in the checkbook war for the nation's top college football talent. The NFL has lost only one of its first-round draft selections to the AFL.

Southern California quarterback Pete Beathard, picked by Detroit, signed with the Kansas City Chiefs.

One first-round NFL selection still is not signed by either league—Texas tackle Scott Appleton, voted the outstanding lineman in the Cotton Bowl after the Longhorns' 28-6 victory over Navy.

Asked where his pro sentiments were, Appleton said after the game:

"I haven't decided a thing."

The NFL rights to Appleton are held by the Pittsburgh Steelers, who traded flanker Buddy Dial to Dallas in order to negotiate with the Texas tackle, picked in the first round by the Cowboys. He also was the No. 1 pick of the AFL's Houston Oilers.

Grabs But Two

While the NFL has signed 12 of its 14 first-round choices, the AFL has managed to grab off only two of its eight first-round picks. Beathard and Ohio State fullback Matt Snell, signed by the Jets, Tony Loric, Arizona State fullback, is claimed by Oakland and Baltimore of the NFL also says it has a signed contract from him.

Besides Brown and Voss, two other Nebraska players signed Wednesday. Tackle Monte Kiffin signed with Minnesota and halfback Willy Lee, with Buffalo of the AFL. The Vikings also signed two Auburn players, halfback George Rose and end Howard Simpson.

In The Cotton Bowl

No. 1 Longhorns Trounce No. 2 Middies, 28 To 6

By JIM BECKER

Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP)—Unsung quarterback Duke Carlisle passed for two touchdowns, ran for a third and overshadowed Navy's celebrated Roger Staubach Wednesday, as national champions Texas walloped the No. 2 Middies 28-6 in the Cotton Bowl before 75,501.

Texas, which ran up a 10-0 season record with grind-it-out tactics, switched to the pass and threw early and often in the battle of the nation's two top-ranked teams.

The outcome ended any argument that the polls might have ranked the two clubs in the wrong order.

The Texas defense completely contained Staubach until it was too late for the Middies. The

And across the steamy dressing room Darrell Royal, the young coach of the nation's top-ranked team, was all smiles as a Navy admiral approached him and said:

"No Damn Doubt!"

"There's no damn doubt about who's No. 1,"

Royal, an ultra-conservative in opinion circles, admitted that this team "has to be one of the best."

He noted that Texas did not anticipate passing as much, adding:

"But we didn't anticipate a jammed-up defense like they played."

He said the Navy linebackers moved in much closer to the line of scrimmage than at any other time this season.

"We hadn't thrown that deep before, but they were crowding up on us and we had to throw deep."

He praised his defensive unit for holding Navy's great quarterback, Roger Staubach, in check most of the time.

"Only one time did we miss Staubach when he reversed field," he said.

Over in the Navy dressing room, Coach Wayne Hardin conceded that "Texas did everything a national champion is supposed to do and deserves the No. 1 rating."

Calm But Wistful
He said it in a calm, if wistful voice and didn't go quite as strong as Rear Adm. Charles Kirkpatrick, outgoing Naval Academy superintendent.

As the admiral filed into the dressing room along with other Navy brass he said, "they beat hell out of us, I'd say."

Which seemed to be the consensus.

"You get behind the No. 1 team by three touchdowns and you haven't much chance," said Hardin.

Hardin said he didn't think Navy could have done anything to halt the Orange Wave and that the key to the Texas victory was its mighty line.

"They just overpowered us," he added.

Roger Staubach, the All-America Navy quarterback, pretty well verified this when he said, when asked what lineman impressed him most:

"Well, they all had me down at one time or another and I didn't notice their numbers."

Rebels Through
The Rebels were through for the day, but they didn't know it. Substitute guard Bobby Robinson pounced on an Alabama fumble on the Alabama 33 and Dunn led the Rebels down to the three. Then, on fourth down, Dunn hit tackle but Alabama's line—magnificent all afternoon—stopped him on the two.

Loyola Gains Eighth Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A six-point spree by 5-foot-10 Johnny Egan broke up a tense battle and fired Loyola of Chicago to a 71-65 consolation round victory over Temple in the Quaker City basketball tournament Monday night.

Egan tallied 32 points as Loyola, after blowing a 14-point lead and trailing by five, rallied to score its eighth victory against one defeat. With Temple ahead 61-59 and 4:12 remaining, Egan dumped in the tying field goal, then drove in for a two-point shot that sent the Ramblers ahead. He added a pair of fouls moments later for a 65-61 lead.

Temple trailed 30-29 at halftime but rallied to go ahead 48-47 and the lead changed hands a number of times before Egan sparked the winning Loyola sprint.

Navy quarterback finished with a Naval Academy record of 21 completed passes, but most of them came when the issue was decided.

In the early going, the scrambling Staubach resembled a fly captured in a bottle. His fumble on the Navy 34 set up the third Texas touchdown.

Texas also separated Staubach from the ball late in the fourth quarter on the Texas 49 and drove to the one-foot mark of Navy as the game ended.

Carlisle set a Cotton Bowl record for total offense. He gained 267 yards, 213 passing and 51 rushing.

The Texas senior hit sophomore wingback Phil Harris on scoring passes that covered 58 and 63 yards, and ran over himself from the nine.

Wade Takes Over
Tommy Wade took over at quarterback late in the third quarter and engineered the final drive.

Navy kicked off to Texas and the Longhorns marched straight in for a touchdown, the eighth time in 11 games that Texas had scored the first time it got its hands on the ball.

From there on it was pity the poor sailors on a day like this.

Texas led 28-0 in the fourth quarter before All-America Staubach could get a sustained drive going.

Staubach carried over himself on a roll-out option from the two, after a drive that covered 75 yards on 14 plays.

A two-point conversion try failed.

Carlisle had a Cotton Bowl passing record when he left the game late in the third quarter, but Staubach came along and surpassed it.

Tops Mark
Jolly Roger compiled 228 yards passing to top the mark of 174 yards by Chuck Curtis of Texas Christian against Syracuse in 1957.

Staubach completed 21 of 31 but had a minus 47 yards rushing, indicating the number of times the Texas lineman broke through and tossed him on his back.

The game marked the seventh time in the last eight tries that the national champion team had won in a bowl game. The most recent 1-2 match-up was last season's Rose Bowl when Southern California outlasted Wisconsin 42-37.

Minnesota was the last national champion to lose, to Washington in the 1961 Rose Bowl.

No. 1 Longhorns Trounce No. 2 Middies, 28 To 6

Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP)—Unsung quarterback Duke Carlisle passed for two touchdowns, ran for a third and overshadowed Navy's celebrated Roger Staubach Wednesday, as national champions Texas walloped the No. 2 Middies 28-6 in the Cotton Bowl before 75,501.

Texas, which ran up a 10-0 season record with grind-it-out tactics, switched to the pass and threw early and often in the battle of the nation's two top-ranked teams.

The outcome ended any argument that the polls might have ranked the two clubs in the wrong order.

The Texas defense completely contained Staubach until it was too late for the Middies. The

And across the steamy dressing room Darrell Royal, the young coach of the nation's top-ranked team, was all smiles as a Navy admiral approached him and said:

"No Damn Doubt!"

"There's no damn doubt about who's No. 1,"

Royal, an ultra-conservative in opinion circles, admitted that this team "has to be one of the best."

He noted that Texas did not anticipate passing as much, adding:

"But we didn't anticipate a jammed-up defense like they played."

He said the Navy linebackers moved in much closer to the line of scrimmage than at any other time this season.

"We hadn't thrown that deep before, but they were crowding up on us and we had to throw deep."

He praised his defensive unit for holding Navy's great quarterback, Roger Staubach, in check most of the time.

"Only one time did we miss Staubach when he reversed field," he said.

Over in the Navy dressing room, Coach Wayne Hardin conceded that "Texas did everything a national champion is supposed to do and deserves the No. 1 rating."

Calm But Wistful
He said it in a calm, if wistful voice and didn't go quite as strong as Rear Adm. Charles Kirkpatrick, outgoing Naval Academy superintendent.

As the admiral filed into the dressing room along with other Navy brass he said, "they beat hell out of us, I'd say."

Which seemed to be the consensus.

"You get behind the No. 1 team by three touchdowns and you haven't much chance," said Hardin.

Hardin said he didn't think Navy could have done anything to halt the Orange Wave and that the key to the Texas victory was its mighty line.

"They just overpowered us," he added.

Roger Staubach, the All-America Navy quarterback, pretty well verified this when he said, when asked what lineman impressed him most:

"Well, they all had me down at one time or another and I didn't notice their numbers."

The Rebels were through for the day, but they didn't know it. Substitute guard Bobby Robinson pounced on an Alabama fumble on the Alabama 33 and Dunn led the Rebels down to the three. Then, on fourth down, Dunn hit tackle but Alabama's line—magnificent all afternoon—stopped him on the two.

29 Suffer Violent Deaths In Monroe During 1963

STROUDSBURG — Violent deaths in Monroe County during 1963 decreased five from the 1962 total.

In 1963 there were 29 violent deaths compared to 34 in 1962. Highway deaths totaled 23 in 1963. These deaths included 11 drivers, ten passengers and two pedestrians. In 1962 the highway deaths totaled 26 and broke down to 12 drivers, nine passengers and five pedestrians.

Suicide, Fire
Other violent deaths in the county for 1963 were: Suicide, two; fire, one; drowning, two; and one man killed by a falling crane boom. There were no murders in 1963.

In 1962 the non-highway violent deaths were: suicide, three; fire, two; drowning, one; and two murders.

Violent deaths in 1963, broken down into drivers, passengers, pedestrian, suicide, fire, drowning, and crane boom are as follows:

Drivers
The first driver to die on the highways of Monroe County in 1963 was Eugene K. Divine, 42, of 47 Analomink St., East Stroudsburg.

The accident occurred on Rt. 209 near Echo Lake. Divine's car struck the rear of a car operated by Barbara Joan Pi-play of East Stroudsburg RD 1, and then crashed into a tree along the highway.

Truck Rollover
Robert C. Whitmore, 28, of Berwick, was killed on April 12 when his truck veered off the side of the highway, throwing him out, and running over him. The accident happened about one mile west of Kresgeville on Rt. 209.

Michael Polonche died on May 25 after being taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County. His car smashed into a bridge abutment on Rt. 191 north of Analomink.

Marx Tragedy
Edward R. Marx Sr., 31, of Cementon, was instantly killed when his car and a bread truck collided head on on Rt. 209 near Poconobana Lodge in Minisink Hills. This accident was July 6 about 1:30 p.m.

Donald F. Closterman Jr., 23, of 505 Ruter Ave., Kingston, was the second driver death for July. He died from a fractured skull.

The accident occurred on Rt. 196 in Paradise Twp. about one and a half mile south of Mt. Pocono. It was a head-on, car crash. The driver of the other car was Robert Theos, then 30, of Mountainhome. Theos suffered a concussion, fracture of the left forearm and multiple lacerations of the face and body.

3rd July Death
George P. C. Colarusso, of 169 Mill St., Pittston, was the third driver death for the July period. He was killed July 24 on Rt. 390, one mile north of Canadensis.

He was alone in the car when it failed to negotiate a curve in the highway and smashed head on into a tree stump. Death was due to a crushed chest.

Walter J. Pavlik, 48, a cook at the Colonial Diner of Stroudsburg, died in a head-on crash on Rt. 209 near Snyder'sville at 3:50 p.m. Sept. 3.

He crashed into a car operated by Elmer J. Keifer of Stroudsburg RD 2.

Death was due to a broken neck and multiple internal injuries.

First Rt. 80 Death
William G. Stutler Jr., 26, of Moscow, Pa., was the first person to die on the new portion of Interstate 80 from Stroudsburg to Scranton.

He was crushed to death when the tractor-trailer crashed into a stone ledge just north of the Bartonsville exit.

Charles S. Sieling, 61, of York was killed Nov. 14 when his car failed to negotiate a curve in Rt. 209 and he crashed head on into a tree.

The accident occurred in Brothensville. He died from a crushed chest and a fractured skull.

December Deaths
In December two drivers died on the county highways.

Dale H. Friday, 22, of Cresco died from a fractured skull when he was thrown from his car on Rt. 196 just south of Analomink on Dec. 19.

Mrs. Hope Harding Cohen, 37, of Cresco RD 1, was the last driver to die in 1963 on a highway in Monroe County.

Mrs. Cohen crashed into the rear of a parked truck and died from a crushed chest and skull.

The accident occurred on Rt. 611 in Tobyhanna.

The truck was loaded with empty caskets.

Passenger Deaths
The first passenger to die a violent death in Monroe County during 1963 was a one-year-old boy, David Wayne Lentz of East Stroudsburg RD 3.

The infant died from head injuries after the car driven by Mrs. Benjamin T. Lentz Jr., his mother, ran off a road from Analomink to Meisertown and crashed into a tree.

Mrs. Dorothy Pohnche of 820 Church St., Stroudsburg, and Gary Baker of Stemple St., East Stroudsburg, were the next two passengers to die in the county.

Both were passengers in the car operated by Michael Pohnche, who also died, when it crashed into a concrete bridge abutment on Rt. 191 near Analomink on May 25.

Mrs. Pohnche died from a skull fracture.

Baker, a son of Major and Mrs. H. G. Baker of East Stroudsburg, died on May 27 from head injuries received in the accident. He was 13 years old.

3 Passengers Killed
Three passengers were killed in a car-stuck accident on Rt. 209 in Minisink Hills July 4. All were passengers in a car driven by Edward Marx Sr. of Cementon.

Killed were Edward Marx Jr., 5, from a compound fractured skull and a broken neck; his mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Marx, 26, who was about six months pregnant, from a fractured skull, and Mrs. Catharine Cessnek, 50, of Northampton RD 2, mother of Mrs. Marx, from a skull fracture and internal injuries.

Car Death

Jeffrey B. Carr, 25, of Trucks-ville, died of multiple fractures of the skull received in an accident on July 20 on Rt. 196 in Paradise Twp.

On Aug. 18, Bobby Van Why, 13, of Portland was instantly killed in a one-car accident on the road from Craig Meadows to Camp William Penn.

It is believed he was thrown out of the car before it struck a utility pole. He was dead on arrival at the General Hospital of Monroe County.

The car in which he was a passenger was driven by Larry Vogler, 16, of Bangor.

Mt. Bethel Boy
Steven Smith, 13, of Mt. Bethel was the second death in the car driven by Vogler. Smith died two days later in the General Hospital of Monroe County from injuries received in the accident.

The last passenger to die a violent death on the highways of the county was Ethel Carol Fischer, 17, of 473 Lincoln Ave., East Stroudsburg.

She was killed Sept. 12 in a one-car accident on the road from Shawnee to Minisink Hills. Death was caused by a fractured skull and multiple internal injuries.

Only two persons were killed on highways in the county this year as they walked on or near the edge of the road.

Andrew Jackson, 30, of Newark, N. J., died Aug. 7 from injuries he received Aug. 6 when struck by a car on Rt. 209 near Altier's Inn and Motel.

The car was operated by Eric Walter Strauch, 24, who gave his addresses as 12 Day St., East Stroudsburg, and 813 Phillips St., Stroudsburg.

The second, and last pedestrian killer in 1963 was Mrs. Mary E. Paul, 81, of 122 N. Ninth St., Stroudsburg.

She was killed when hit by a car operated by Lester W. Miller, 20, of Reeders. Mrs. Paul was walking on Rt. 611 in front of her home.

Fatal Burns
Only one person died in Monroe County as a result of fire last year.

Frank Bogert, 69, of East Stroudsburg RD 1, died in the General Hospital of Monroe County from burns of the chest.

State Police from the Stroudsburg substation said that Bogert apparently was trying to start a fire in a coal stove with kerosene when it exploded.

The accident occurred on Dec. 31 and he died on Jan. 1.

Drowned
Ernest Fred Schoonover, 5, of Bushkill, drowned in a lake on the property of Echo Lake Farm May 18.

The youth had been fishing in the lake with his father, Ernest Schoonover.

The second person to drown in waters in Monroe County was Marvin Wuest, 29, of 318 S. Broad St., Nazareth.

He drowned in Saylor's Lake on Sept. 2, while fishing from a boat on the lake.

In the boat with him was Frank Gilio, 37, of Bethlehem. Gilio told State Police that Wuest, a 340-pound man, stood up in the boat to stretch and the boat tipped over. Neither man could swim.

Suicide
Two men died by suicide during the past 12 months. They were the only suicides during the year.

First to die was Judson Lee, 75, of 616 King St., Stroudsburg. He shot himself while sitting in the basement of his home April 13.

William T. Nelson, 51, of Minisink Hills shot himself with a .45 caliber pistol June 13.

He was found lying face up on his bed with the pistol a short distance from his body. State Police theorize that the recoil of the weapon caused it to land in the position in which it was found.

Crane Boom
Joseph W. Walsh, 55, of West Pittston, was instantly killed when a crane boom, loaded with 250 pounds of steel rods, broke and fell on him.

He was working on the addition to the Buck Hill Falls Inn when the accident occurred.

Kiwanis Club Hears Prison Chaplain

STROUDSBURG — Rev. William O. Leopold, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church in Stroudsburg addressed the Kiwanis Club of Stroudsburg at its luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Penn Stroud Hotel.

Mr. Leopold served three years as a visiting chaplain at Eastern State Penitentiary, Greater Ford, Pennsylvania.

His topic was "From a Prison Chaplain's Notebook."

The speaker holds degrees from Muhlenberg College, Theological Seminary at Philadelphia and the University of Pennsylvania.

Program chairman was John Hunkelberger. Kiwanians honored at the birthday table were R. M. Hoot, Harold O. Bates, H. B. George, Allan W. Keiper, C. E. Altman, Morris Evans, Dale Learn, Dr. L. J. Koehler, William Walter, Arthur Postonak, Robert Clark, John Baynor, Dr. Bruce Dunlop, William Clark and James H. Greener.

It was announced that Edwin Cope, Lt. Gov. of Kiwanis International, District 17, will install officers and directors for 1964 at the club meeting Jan. 8. Lt. Gov. Cope will also present the perfect attendance awards.

Firemen Fight Stroud Twp. Trailer Blaze

WIGWAM PARK — Firemen from Stroud Twp. and Stroudsburg fire departments battled a blazing house trailer Tuesday from 11:30 p.m. to 2 a.m. yesterday.

The trailer owned by Mr. and Mrs. James Neipert of Stroudsburg RD 3 is located on the road from the Charcoal Hearth on Rt. 611 to Mt. Zion.

The fire was discovered by Robert Counterman, a neighbor, and he summoned the Stroud Twp. firemen. Stroud Twp. firemen later called Stroudsburg Fire Department requesting one truck to aid them.

Raymond Silvers, an officer in Stroud Twp. Fire Company, last night said that the cause of the fire is undetermined and that the Neiperts and their two children were not in the trailer at time of fire.

Silvers said an investigation of the fire is underway and when the cause is established it will be made public.

U. S. Plans For Mars Probes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is planning a one-two punch at the planet Mars some 11 months from now.

But even the two Mariner space probes planned for next November probably won't knock out all of the conjecture about earth's colorful and puzzling planetary neighbor.

The probes should fly by Mars by March 1965.

A Soviet probe toward Mars launched in November 1962, was to have provided a close-up view of the planet this past summer—but its radios fell silent millions of miles out in space.

U.S. scientists are hopeful their twin space probes will be as successful as the Mariner that raced close by cloud-shrouded Venus this year.
